Appendix A

Construction of the Resolution

1. The Preamble:

The purpose of the preamble is to lead up to the operative clause. It familiarizes the reader with the subject under discussion and alerts the reader to the problem at hand. The reader is then prepared to consider the solution or call to action about to be offered in the operative clause.

All preamble clauses begin with “WHEREAS” and, where appropriate, should start out by referring to applicable legislation. If possible, list the particular parts of the legislation to which the resolution is taking exception.

The preamble should then go on to explain what, exactly, the problem is. This is best explained by using examples of the actual incident(s) precipitating the resolution.

2. The Operative Clause:

All operative clauses begin with, “THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED THAT the International Association of Women Police...” This is usually then followed with either “requests” or “opposed to...”

In case of operative clauses which are requests, usually requesting an action by a political official or body, it is imperative that this request be directed to the proper officer or head of the relevant body . that is , the official having jurisdiction over the legislation in question. Also, when referring to this person responsible, use the appropriate title of responsibility, for example “the Minister of”, rather than the individual’s name.

The operative clause is the call to action . the very reason the resolution was drafted in the first place. This is the most important part of the resolution and should be written very clearly. There should be no doubt as to what specific action is being requested.

Also, the called-for action must be appropriate to the problem outlined in the preamble. Often, an operative clause will contain more than one call to action. Unfortunately, these other calls to action are usually associated with peripheral issues and are therefore not truly pertinent solutions to the issue at hand.

This only serves to confuse the reader and, to the various committees which most review the resolutions, detracts from the proper call to action.

3. The Wording:

Keep it simple. Keep it action oriented. And keep it free of ambiguous terms.

4. Commentary / Media Lines

To be submitted with each resolution. This provides background information for IAWP members and the members of the Resolutions Committee.

5. Action Plan

Outline how the sponsor is going to move the resolution forward until implemented. The sponsor is responsible for providing to the IAWP BoD twice yearly status reports at regularly scheduled BoD meetings following the anniversary of the publication of the resolution.

6. Timeline

Time frames within the policy are intended to give both the sponsor and the reviewing bodies time to consider their obligations while also obliging them to respond, constructively, within a specified and reasonable period. It is expected that both bodies will respect the time lines imposed while also being flexible in negotiating any request for change.
